Q3 2025 Fund Commentary

Market commentary

U.S. equities rose in the third quarter of 2025 as inflation eased and policy turned supportive. Fiscal optimism rose with new trade deals and approval of the One Big Beautiful Bill Act. Softer labour data boosted expectations for interest-rate cuts. The U.S. Federal Reserve Board cut interest rates by 0.25% in September, signaling further monetary easing ahead.

Investor enthusiasm for artificial intelligence (AI) and resilient corporate earnings drove stock indices to record highs, led by the information technology sector. Growth and small-capitalization stocks outperformed.

Performance

The Fund's relative exposure to AppLovin Corp., Robinhood Markets Inc. and Alphabet Inc. contributed to performance. Relative exposure to Expand Energy Corp., Axon Enterprise Inc. and Boston Scientific Corp. detracted from performance.

At a sector level, stock selection and underweight exposure to consumer staples contributed to performance. Overweight exposure and selection within financials also contributed to performance. Selection in energy, health care and communication services detracted from performance, as did underweight exposure to health care.

Portfolio activity

In July, the sub-advisor increased Uber Technologies Inc. and Oracle Corp. Axon Enterprise Inc., Cheniere Energy Inc. and ServiceNow Inc. were reduced.

In August, AppLovin Corp., CBRE Group Inc., PulteGroup Inc. and Booking Holdings Inc. were added. Expand Energy Corp. and Eli Lilly and Co. were sold, and Quanta Services Inc., Robinhood Markets Inc. and Howmet Aerospace Inc. were reduced.

Outlook

The sub-advisor has a positive long-term outlook despite volatility and tariff uncertainty. The U.S. economy shows resilience, with solid income growth and consumer demand. In the sub-advisor's view, U.S. policy clarity should be positive for market performance.

The sub-advisor's focus is on finding market leaders with strong structural growth. The Fund favours domestic-focused firms and innovation-driven sectors, with overweight exposures to industrials, consumer discretionary and financials. Key investment themes include defense, AI automation, power generation and cybersecurity.
